

The Gallon Man Example

Sung to the tune of The Ants Go Marching

Two pints go marching two by two, Hurrah! Hurrah!
Two pints go marching two by two, Hurrah! Hurrah!

As doubles they plunge into a quart, standing so quiet,
As if they're in course . . . As they all go marching into the chest to get out of the rain.

Four quarts go marching four by four, Hurrah! Hurrah!
Four quarts go marching four by four, Hurrah! Hurrah!

All four follow and slip inside, standing so close as if they were tied . . . As they all go marching into the chest to get out of the rain.

A gallon goes marching one by one, Hurrah! Hurrah!
A gallon goes marching one by one, Hurrah! Hurrah!

Add together eight pints or four quarts, the total is always one gallon of course! As they all go marching-equivalent-and-dry-out of the rain

Source: Kagan, L. (2005). Multiple intelligences structures & activities. San Clemente, CA: Kagan