Coldwell Banker California offices sponsor teacher websites

RIDGEFIELD, CT (July, 2006) – Through a newly developed program, two California offices of Coldwell Banker are sponsoring web sites for teachers and schools in the Santa Barbara County area of California. Working in conjunction with the Santa Barbara County Education Office, the Santa Barbara and Montecito offices of Coldwell Banker are paying the costs of web sites from TeacherWeb®, the leading provider of websites for educators across the country.

Says program coordinator Steve Keithley, "We in Santa Barbara are very grateful to Coldwell Bankers for sponsoring the TeacherWeb web sites. We educators know that communication between teachers and parents is critical for strong education, and appreciate Coldwell Banker role in facilitating this. When I was a teacher, I used TeacherWeb and was amazed with its simplicity and effectiveness – it increased and improved by communication, especially with parents, and saved time."

According to TeacherWeb president Jeanne Bodnar, "Companies can play a valuable role to support education in their communities. Teachers, schools, and parents are very appreciative of companies like Coldwell Banker that step up to the plate." Those interested can contact TeacherWeb at info@teacherweb.com.

About the Company

TeacherWeb® is a registered trademark of TeacherWeb, Inc. a privately-owned Delaware corporation that is the leading provider of non-HTML template websites for teachers' use in the classroom. The ease of use for which TeacherWeb® is known, as well as the great degree of accompanying customization and flexibility and ability to integrate school-wide, is accomplished through a proprietary patent-pending technology that is recognized as unique throughout the industry. TeacherWeb® was launched in 1996 by Jeanne Bodnar, who is the president, and by a partner in charge of web design who has since retired. Jeanne is an entrepreneur by nature, having had previous businesses as a telecommunications consultant and as the first internet access provider in the town of Ridgefield, CT. Her staff includes software engineers, marketing associates, and customer support staff.
